for the Yankees.
To my way of thinking that is nure "bunk." In the first place I can see no reason why a change from Wally Pipp should be desired. He is a first baseman of major league callber.
For years they have been replacing Wally Pipp at first. Each spring, however, finds him back on the job as the regular first baseman.

Pipp is a mighty find fielder, an excellent target for the rest of the infield to throw at. Pipp has a nice style at the plate, and it always has been surprising to me that he didn't finish with a higher batting average. Why, then, shift Ruth to first base when the position is being most ac-ceptably filled by Pipp? In the second place it is my opin-

Ruth is never going to be the Hal Chase type of first baseman. Ruth, always anxious to get results, would perhaps use brute force in making plays at first that would often result in serious injury. I recall one game in which he played first base for Boston. He really saved the game by blocking first base, and allowing the runner to slide into his leg instead of the bag. He was badly cut as a result and was out for about ten games. It was a very costly experience Ruth's place is in the outfield. The bir fellow has really developed into a very fine fielder. If he would use some care as to his diet, & would be a very easy matter for him to reduce at least twenty pounds. A loss of that much weight would make him a much improved ball player in all departments.—B. E.
